

Anthony Roach

Anthony Roach is an Australian landscape photographer who lives on the coastal beaches of Sydney, Australia. With a PhD in marine biology, Roach combines his skills as a photographer with his affinity and intimate knowledge of natural environments to produce images which capture seascapes with a unique perspective and mood.

Roach's surreal seascapes harmonise the evocative forms of coastal landscapes, the swash of the sea and saturated colours of morning's first light. These images have been taken using both 35mm and large format cameras.

He displays his work in fine art galleries and at exhibitions in Sydney and sells work as limited edition prints to people from all over the world.
