

André Renoux

Regarded as the most credentialed 20th century's Parisian Urban artist, Renoux became the Godfather of artists in his time. Renoux made Paris his own by capturing and protecting the sounds, smells, tastes and textures of the City Of Lights in his own unique expression of brush to canvas.

Highly respected in Europe, Renoux is truly one of France's national treasures. He has now joined the gallery of great artists of the ages. As time goes on, he will be remembered as the artist who captured Paris in our 20th century.

Renoux is the Father of the Paris School of Urban Realism. Paris by Renoux presents a personal vision of this magical city and there is something deceptively simple about his vision.

Renoux enables us to stop and dream before the old shops and bistros that he has so carefully preserved in their antiquity.

Born in Oran, Algeria, in 1939 to a family of Provençal origin, Renoux migrated to France at the age of ten and first studied painting at Nice's Ecole des Arts Decoratifs.
