About Yuval Mahler

Born in 1951 in Haifa, Israel, Yuval Mahler studied graphic design and animation at the School of Visuals Arts in New York City. Mahler draws upon a rich supply of wry humor, satire, caricature, and comedy to produce his insightful studies of human behavior. His paintings explore human relationships under various conditions of life all over the world and sometimes exploring Jewish life.

Mahler's work appeals to the child in us all. The variety of his art includes Fiberglass, Acrylic, Gouache, Metal Cutting, 3D Lithographs, Serigraphs and Giclee prints.

His paintings have been shown in galleries and exhibitions in many countries, including Israel, the United States, Canada, Germany and Switzerland.

Serigraph on Paper

Screen printing or Serigraphy is a printing technique that uses a woven mesh to support an ink blocking stencil. The attached stencil forms open areas of mesh that transfer ink as a sharp-edged image onto a substrate. A roller or squeegee is moved across the screen stencil forcing or pumping ink past the threads of the woven mesh in the open areas.

Credit is generally given to the artist Andy Warhol for popularizing screen printing identified as serigraphy, in the United States. Warhol is particularly identified with his 1962 depiction of actress Marilyn Monroe screen printed in garish colors.
