About Jinous Kani

Jinous Kani was born in Persia in 1979. Raised in a well-educated family in the northern part of Tehran, Kani. Her parents, who intrinsically valued and included art in their daily activities, seamlessly incorporated the artistic fundamentals into Kani's upbringing.

But it was not until her first year of middle school that Kani harnessed the creative authority garnered from her advanced intellectual background. It was during these formative years that Kani tried her hand at sketching, a craft she immediately took to, and excelled at almost as quickly. Motivated by a close-knit group of like-minded friends, Kani and her cohorts made frequent trips to area galleries and different unique locations specifically to sketch. Impressed by their daughter's self-discipline, Kani's parents recognized in her the potential for much greater things. They encouraged Kani to continue her education at a high school with an art-based curriculum.

Through her teens, Kani continued sketching and improving her skill through Visual Arts classes. During this period, she specifically developed an interest in visual abstraction, and the imaginative vignettes and figures conjured out of this unconventional method of drawing. Eager to think beyond her preferred medium, Kani found extra time to sculpt pottery and other three-dimensional arts, pursuits that ultimately complemented and enhanced her abstract visions.

Always ready to raise the bar, Kani soon branched out into painting, after a visit to the U.S. Kani credits exposure to a different culture with her sudden interest in new ways of thinking and fresher means of artistic expression. Following this visit, Kani considered leaving Tehran for the first time. In the interim, she studied Graphic Design at Azad University in Tehran. Once she completed school, she was hired by one of Iran's leading design agencies.

Kani eventually relocated to the states, where painting became her career focus. Influenced primarily by figurative greats Egon Schiele and Gustav Klimt, Kani was able to brilliantly capture the tension between negative and positive space on canvas, a trait evident in much of her work.

This intense, inimitable approach has helped Kani harvest a strong following for someone of her youth. Stylized bodies of exaggerated proportions intertwine with powerful color and line to convey a serenity of spirit. The expressive palette and painterly gestures match that mood and intensify the humanistic motif dominant in most of Kani's catalogue. Kani sees no direct distinction between graphic design, painting or art in any form, which has only served to benefit her and increase her already widespread appeal throughout the art industry.

Original Acrylic on Paper

Acrylic paint is fast-drying paint containing pigment suspended in an acrylic polymer emulsion. Acrylic paints can be diluted with water, but become water-resistant when dry. Depending on how much the paint is diluted with water or modified with acrylic gels, mediums, or pastes, the finished acrylic painting can resemble a watercolor or an oil painting, or have its own unique characteristics not attainable with the other media. Acrylics were first made commercially available in the 1950s.

The main difference between acrylics and oil paints is the inherent drying time. Oils allow for more time to blend colors and apply even glazes over underpaintings. This slow drying aspect of oil can be seen as an advantage for certain techniques, but in other regards it impedes the artist trying to work quickly.
