About Philip Maxwell

Born in Paris in 1964, Maxwell studied in The College of Fine Arts with the master of classical arts, Pierre Ondre. He became obsessed with the visual beauty of the street scenes in France, and continued painting these scenes until he was able to capture their natural beauty and using vivid colors which reflect the artistic nuances of the natural culture of Paris.

Known for his passionate paintings, which he brings to life with vivid colors and energetic brush strokes, Philip Maxwell continues to make an impressive addition to any art collection.

Serigraph On Canvas

Screen printing or Serigraphy is a printing technique that uses a woven mesh to support an ink blocking stencil. The attached stencil forms open areas of mesh that transfer ink as a sharp-edged image onto a substrate. A roller or squeegee is moved across the screen stencil forcing or pumping ink past the threads of the woven mesh in the open areas.

Credit is generally given to the artist Andy Warhol for popularizing screen printing identified as serigraphy, in the United States. Warhol is particularly identified with his 1962 depiction of actress Marilyn Monroe screen printed in garish colors.
