About Pete Peterson

Alan "Pete" Peterson was born in Denver, Colorado in 1931 and raised in Cheyenne, Wyoming. He was entirely self-taught and won his first art competition at age seven with a drawing of the "Queen Mary." After graduating from high school, he enlisted in the Navy. This time etched an indelible fascination for ships and the sea. Mr. Peterson spent many years working in various vocations to support his painting "habit" before finally turning to art full time in 1970.

Serigraph on Paper

Screen printing or Serigraphy is a printing technique that uses a woven mesh to support an ink blocking stencil. The attached stencil forms open areas of mesh that transfer ink as a sharp-edged image onto a substrate. A roller or squeegee is moved across the screen stencil forcing or pumping ink past the threads of the woven mesh in the open areas.

Credit is generally given to the artist Andy Warhol for popularizing screen printing identified as serigraphy, in the United States. Warhol is particularly identified with his 1962 depiction of actress Marilyn Monroe screen printed in garish colors.
