About Joarez

Lovers and Art Collectors are unanimous: Joarez produces an Art of the XXI Century! It started in Sao Paulo, where a five year old child started to take interest in drawing. A strong trace and enormous criativity was profecite over his great future! Many years went by, when in 1998, in Japan, the young man sold his first artwork. It was about seven years living in the Sunrise Land, studying and developing what today is the base of his paintings.

Currently living and producing your master artworks in the sunny South Florida in the United States. The Brazilian cultural diversity along with the Japanese traditions, with the American modern life form the body and soul of the artistic paintings of this artist who lives ahead of his time. With delicate colors and spontaneously strokes, he expresses strength, passion and faith in his work, in another words, Joarez put his life in his paintings! It's not by accident that one of the greatest Art Dealer of the United States affirmed: "We are able to recognize a Van Gogh, Picasso or Rembrandt without even looking at the signature. The same happens with Joarez' paintings, it is possible to look and affirm, that the painting is Joarez', without looking at the signature. Aside from being a great artist he is a great man."

Giclee on Canvas

Giclee [zhee-clay] is a French term meaning a 'squirt or spray of ink'. This process utilizes sophisticated printing techniques whereby an industrial 8-Color to 12-Color inkjet printer sprays a staggering four million droplets of ink per second onto archival fine art paper or canvas. Requiring highly sophisticated printers and special pigment inks for an extremely wide color gamut, this blend of fine art and state-of-the-art technology produces exceptional fine art prints. Giclee prints are usually coated with a high quality gloss or varnish to minimize abrasion and increase resistance to image fading. Additionally, protective coatings protect expensive prints against moisture.

Giclee prints render deep, saturated colors and retain minute detail, subtle tints and blends. The quality of the giclee print rivals traditional silver-halide and gelatin printing processes and is commonly found in museums, art galleries, and photographic galleries.

The giclee printing process provides better color accuracy than other means of reproduction. The prints may be hand embellished by the artist using paint, ink and gold foil stamping for a mixed media effect. Giclee prints are sometimes mistakenly referred to as Iris prints, which are 4-Color ink-jet prints from a printer pioneered in the late 1970s by Iris Graphics.

Numerous examples of giclee prints can be found in New York City at the Metropolitan Museum, the Museum of Modern Art, and the Chelsea Galleries. Recent auctions of giclee prints have fetched as much as $20,000.
